West Capitol projects: city asked to help

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Two developers planning pioneering housing projects on West Capitol Avenue have asked for assistance from the city as they apparently face financial hurdles:

N The developers who have bought one of the city's most well-known adult motels and hope to turn it into an 82-unit condominium project have asked the city to buy their property – at least for a while.

"The owners have asked for an option to repurchase, because they (still) hope to put housing on this site," said Tina Gontarski, director of the city's Housing and Community Investment Department.

On the table are the Experience Motel site at 824 West Capitol and an adjacent nine-unit apartment complex at 820 West Capitol, near the Riske Lane overpass on the eastern part of the avenue. The negotiations were opened by Almarra, LLC.

Gontarski emphasized that the city has "absolutely no plans to demolish the apartments – none."

An attempt to reach development project manager David Westin about the deal was not immediately successful.

The council will be asked in closed session tonight to give city staff some instructions regarding the possible transaction.

David Tilley, a planner for the city, said that the development has already received city approvals in the form of a subdivision map and a conditional use permit. The property, totaling about two acres, is in the city's "central business district" zone which permits commercial and residential uses. The conditional use permit, though, was necessary to allow residential use of first-floor space.

N Sequoia Standard, LLC, has asked the city to help plug a financing gap by applying for a $3.9 million loan at three percent interest available through the California Housing Finance Agency for its "Landmark Lofts." Project.

The loan will help keep the project on track, said Gontarski. Developers hope to break ground this summer on the first phase of the townhouse project on the 1800-block of West Capitol, west of Jefferson Boulevard. The project also includes commercial space along West Capitol.

"What Landmark Lofts has been doing is trying to replace their equity investor," said Gontarski. "We think they have a good project and we're very supportive of Landmark Lofts."

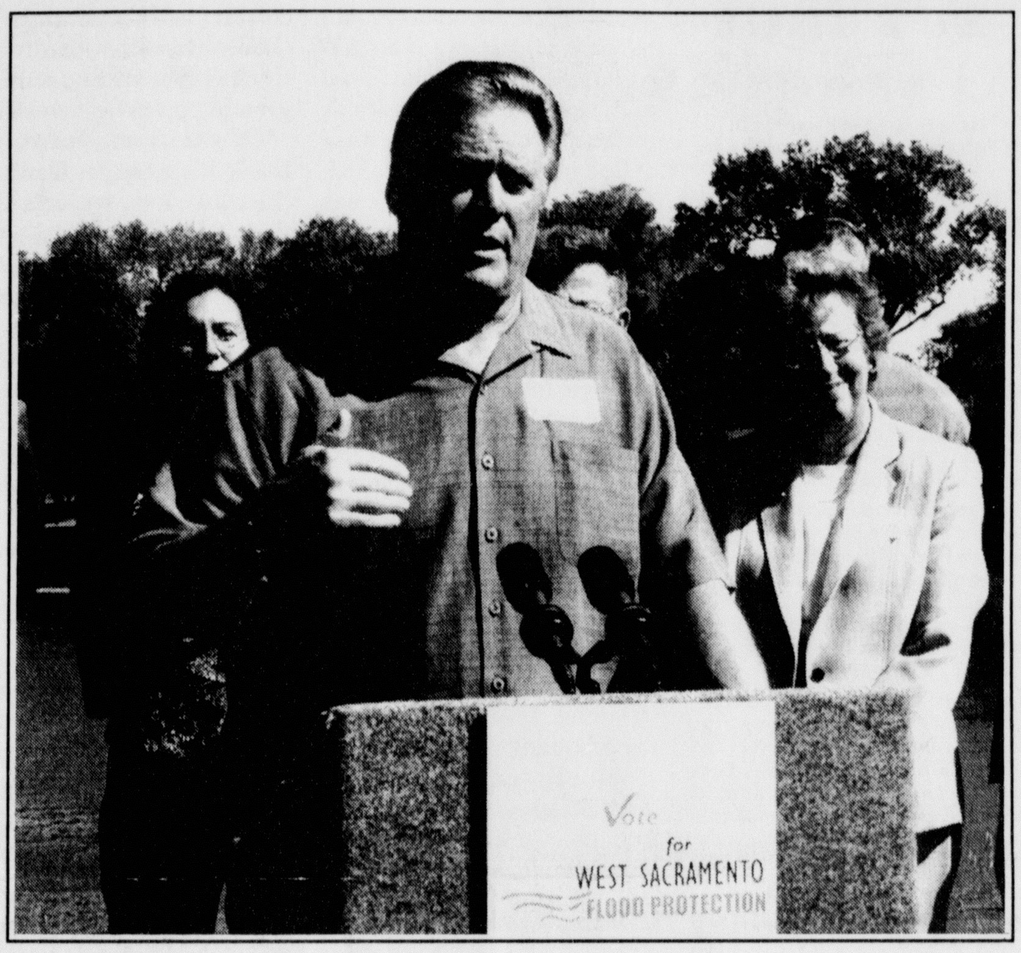
The proposed loan application will be discussed in open session at tonight's city council meeting.

In other business tonight, the council will consider approving preliminary ideas for the proposed new regional streetcar system.

An early design for the system proposes an eight-car fleet operating on 10-minute centers during peak hours. The first phase of the system would bring one streetcar line over the Tower Bridge from Sacramento to West Sacramento's city hall area on the 1100-block of West Capitol.

Estimated "capital costs" for the regional system are $53 million.

Flood assessment worth it, argues coalition of leaders



City council member BILL KRISTOFF address reporters at yesterday's press conference to urge support for a new levee improvement fee. At left is resident & school board member Sandra Vargas; at right is 8th District Assemblywoman Lois Wolk.

West Sacramento activists and public officials yesterday kicked off a campaign for a new flood protection tax with a press conference along South River Road near the barge canal.

"We are here to launch our campaign and urge property owners to vote 'yes,'" said Sandra Vargas, a city resident and a member of the local school board.

She and other members speaking on behalf of "Vote Yes for West Sacramento Flood Protection" urged property owners – both residential and commercial to cast their votes next month in favor of a new assessment. The tax is expected to raise over $40 million which, combined with a similar amount expected from a fee placed on new development, could provide a hefty "local share" and attract enough federal and state money to pay for over $400 million in planned levee improvements.

The improvements would more than double the flood safety margin in the city, experts say. West Sacramento currently has less than a "100 year" level of flood safety – meaning there is better than a one-in-a-hundred chance of major flooding in a given winter. Plans by the city and local flood control agencies are to improve the levees and create a "200 year" level of protection.

How much will the assessment cost a local homeowner?, one reporter asked West Sacramento City Councilman Bill Kristoff.

"Around 80 bucks (a year)," he answered, for most homes. Anyone interested in a closer estimate for the yearly assessment on their home can visit www.westsacfloodprotection.com and use an online calculator.

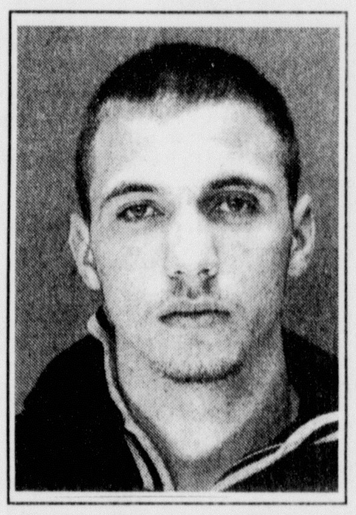
More arrests in AMTRAK attack

West Sacramento police announced last week that two more people – male juveniles age 15 and 16 – have been arrested in the April 16 assault on several AMTRAK employees after the train stopped because they were blocking the tracks.

Previously arrested were two other minors.

Lt. David Farmer of the West Sacramento police said



WANTED: Pauliton Ricardo Nunes, age 19

that investigators from his department, along with AMTRAK and Union Pacific Railroad police, have identified all seven people believed present in the night-time incident. Four have been arrested. A male and a juvenile each age 16 were believed to be present but not involved in the assault.

But one more suspect, a 19-year old male, remains at large. Farmer identified him as Pauliton Ricardo Nunes, a Hispanic age 5' 9" tall and 155 pounds. He is wanted on felony counts including attempted murder, assault with a deadly weapon, train robbery and street gang terrorism. Anyone with information is asked to call Detective Hensley at 617-4955 or Detective Twardosz at 617-4935. Callers may remain anonymous.

When train crew member stopped to try to clear the tracks, several were beaten – including the train's engineer, who was hospitalized (and later released) after receiving serious injuries.

The incident occurred on the tracks near 6th Street and Sacramento Avenue.

School is named

You can stop calling it "Elementary School #9."

A school district committee last week came up with a new name for the elementary school now under construction in the "Gateway" area, south of the barge canal and east of Jefferson Boulevard. The school, which will serve as Washington Unified School District's first charter school, will be known as "Stonegate Academy."

School colors will be dark green, burgundy and gold, and the campus mascot will be a lion.

About 35 people attended a meeting to decide the school name. The process was led by Marty Ofenham, the current principal at Evergreen Elementary School who is scheduled to be the first principal at Stonegate Academy.

14-year old West Sac girl found; two adults charged

A law enforcement team believes a 14-year old runaway girl from West Sacramento ended up pictured in ads for an "escort service" in the Sacramento News & Review and on the "Craigslist" website. The girl was taken into protective custody after being found in a motel on Arden Way in Sacramento.

The girl's name was not released due to her age. She was reported missing in early April.

West Sacramento police, the California Bureau of Investigations Sex Predator Team, the FBI and the Sacramento police vice unit located the girl, said Lieutenant David Farmer of the West Sacramento Police Department. Two adults were arrested under charges that they were providing the girl for the use of others.

Arrested for "providing a minor under 16 for lewd and lascivious acts," "contributing to the delinquency of a minor" and for conspiracy were Edward Gentry, 22, and Keisha Pagan, 35. Gentry was also charged with committing lewd and lascivious acts with a minor and with giving a false name to police.

The pair were booked into Sacramento's jail and were being held on $250,000 bail.

Parking lot assault: 7 arrests

Six more arrests have resulted from the investigation into the parking lot assault and robbery of two women in a car on Pine Street April 28.

Police report that at 1:30 a.m. that morning, two men and two women attacked a pair of women trying to drive out of a parking lot behind the apartment complex at 827 Pine Street. One suspect grabbed the steering wheel, causing the victims' car to hit five parked cars – damaging all the vehicles involved.

The two women were then dragged from their vehicle and kicked and beaten. Both of their purses were stolen, as was a necklace and a stereo from the vehicle. One alleged suspect, 24-year old Unique Petite, was identified and arrested immediately inside the apartment complex.

Detectives identified an apartment where several other suspects lived, said Lieutenant David Farmer of the West Sacramento Police Department. At 6 a.m. last Wednesday, detectives and SWAT team members entered that apartment and found six people. Three were arrested in connection with the assault. The other three were arrested on narcotic charges and warrants. Property belonging to one of the victims was found in the apartment, said Farmer, along with crack cocaine packaged for sale.

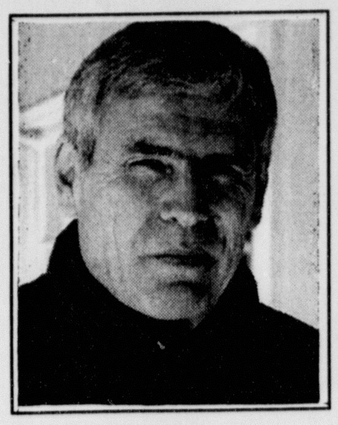
A three-year old girl in the apartment was taken into the custody of Yolo County Child Protective Services.

Arrested on suspicion of being involved in the assault and robbery were Darwin Cooley-Colona, a 20-year old female West Sacramento resident; William Lee Carswell, a 27-year old male resident; and Nakisha Harrington, a 26-year old female Sacramentan. Carswell and Colona were also charged with drug possession for sales.

Lasandra Denise Thomas, a 48-year old Sacramento resident, was charged with being in a place where drugs were used or sold. Also arrested on drug charges were George Turner, a 35-year old Sacramentan, and Brandi Fox, a 21-year old Sacramentan. Fox was also charged with child endangerment.

Do your kids ever clean their rooms?

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

Note: I was talking to a longtime friend of mine the other day and we were trying to decide which one of us had raised the laziest kids, and I was reminded of the following column, which first appeared in the News-Ledger about a decade ago:

I have a son (I'll call him Paul) who lives in the most cluttered room imaginable. Not only are his college books and papers scattered all over the place, but every article of clothing he owns has been tossed on the floor -- some in piles that are two or three feet high. When asked how he can possibly go out into the world wearing clothes which have never been hung up on hangers and are only intermittently washed, he simply reminds me that when it comes to looking like a clothes horse, his father is no picture-on-the-wall either.

Unlike me, Paul is not electronically challenged, so his room is also overflowing with computer software and other assorted gadgets which are connected by miles of black wires to a large television set and computer monitor that make it possible for him to sit comfortably in the middle of his clutter and successfully communicate with the outside world. He also loves to listen to music and watch taped movies from other countries so countless CD's and video tapes are also everywhere one looks.

In Paul's defense, his closets are overflowing with old and new art projects and the materials needed to make them, and his clothes drawers can't be completely closed because of God only knows what is already in them. At least he has managed to fit a bed into the room, though it is never made and the covers spend more time on the floor than they do keeping him warm. In fact, his room (especially the floor) has become so cluttered that the family dog can't even create a path anymore to get to the large picture window he loves to use when it's time to bark at the mailman.

So, a few weekends ago, when I was glancing through the Sacramento Bee, I was of course immediately struck by an article entitled "Mess Managed" by Bee staff writer Alison Roberts, who wrote that there are actually self-help groups out there for those who clutter. She even offered a little self-test where multiple "yes" answers confirmed whether one might have a cluttering problem or not. For instance, if you answered yes to the following questions, you probably have a clutter problem worth taking seriously:

Is your desk, countertop or floor covered with papers? Are you unable to reach all the windows in your home? Do you have a room you are unable to use or enter due to clutter? Have you ever tripped over your own clutter? Has a household member expressed dismay at your level of disorganization?

"Have you read this?" I asked my wife, showing her the article.

"Yes," she answered, having long been a fan of the Sacramento Bee's Scene section.

"They're talking about Paul."

"I know that."

"One of the questions they ask the person who clutters is if they feel they were deprived as a child, either emotionally or materially? Do you think maybe we had something to do with Paul growing up to be a slob?"

"Of course not," answered my wife. "I just think it's a stage. Don't you remember how the other kids weren't very good at keeping their rooms clean, either?"

"A stage?" I asked in disbelief. "His room has looked like that for ten years!"

"You wait and see," my wife assured me, "once he moves out into his own place, I'm sure he will quickly put his cluttering days behind him."

"How can you be so sure of that?" I asked.

"Well," she answered, "because that's what happened to me." Immediately sensing that I was wondering if cluttering could be an inherited gene, she quickly added, "Trust me, it's no big deal. We'll just keep shutting his door when company comes over and everything will work out fine."

Anyway, figuring that it couldn't hurt to mention the cluttering article to my son, I went down to the local clinic, took a series of shots which would enable me to enter his room without fear of getting any kind of deadly mold or fungus diseases, and confronted him with the fact that he is a slob.

"I know that," said Paul matter-of-factly as he sat in the middle of his clutter strumming away on a guitar.

"But how can you stand to live this way?" I demanded to know. "How can you possibly find anything in here."

"It just looks like a mess," my son assured me. "I actually know exactly where everything is at. And the only time I can't find what I need is when Mom sneaks in here while I'm gone and tries to clean everything up."

"But this article I just read says that being chronically disorganized is a compulsion that can end up being as bad as alcoholism or drug abuse. It also said that it could stem from something in your childhood -- that you could feel either emotionally or materially deprived."

That made my son laugh and he said, "Look, Dad, I'm just a slob, okay, and if you don't watch out, those stupid psychology courses you took in college are going to be the death of you yet."

Anyway, as I took my machete from it's sheath and began hacking my way back out of my son's bedroom, I decided he was probably right about not taking my little speech about the psychological aspects of cluttering too seriously, especially since I've always been like that guy who (in terms of psychology expertise) knows just enough about Karate to walk into a country-western bar and get his butt kicked.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• This may come as a surprise to you — then again, perhaps it won't — but if you're like the average person, you forget 80 percent of everything you learn on any given day.

• Americans eat, on average, 350 slices of pizza every second. That's all Americans put together, of course, not on an individual basis.

• It was journalist and satirist H.L. Mencken who made the following sage observation on the state of the relationship between the sexes: "Men have a much better time of it than women; for one thing, they marry later; for another thing, they die earlier."

• Most people are afraid of snakes (and unjustifiably so, I would say), so it might come as a surprise to you that it doesn't even make the list of top 10 phobias. The No. 1 phobia is the fear of spiders, followed by the fear of social situations and the fear of flying.

• Leonardo da Vinci was a multitalented man — painter, sculptor, musician, writer, architect, mathematician and, of course, inventor. Despite his many successes, however, it's been reported that his last words were, "I have offended God and mankind because my work did not achieve the quality it should have."

The Oscar De La Hoya vs Floyd Mayweather fight last Saturday was the biggest pay-per-view farce I almost paid for! Billed the "World Awaits" was suppose to be the biggest boxing match of the decade between the two best pound for pound fighters in the world, instead it turned into the biggest ballroom dance act in Las Vegas. I thought I was watching an episode of Dancing with the Stars!

Anyway, Mayweather was awarded a split-decision victory over De La Hoya to win Oscar's WBC Junior-Middleweight title before a very disappointed crowd of 16,700 at the MGM Grand. Neither fighters did much of anything except dance and were continuously booed loudly by the pro-De La Hoya crowd.

The only action came in the closing moments of the 12th round when Oscar chased Floyd around the ring and the two finally exchanged blows in the middle of the ring and then the two unscathed fighters exchanged a big hug after the final bell.

Not a mark on either fighters face except for a little bump on Floyd's eye lid. Didn't these warriors tell us on their two-month long HBO series how they were going to hurt each other? Funny thing was the gambling book at the MGM had Mayweather an 8-5 favorite but the under and over on the fight was a ridiculously set at 11 ½ rounds in a 12 round bout!

To make matters worse the 30 year-old Mayweather is talking about retiring undefeated. De La Hoya was quoted saying" If I didn't chase him around the ring, we wouldn't have had a fight". Well, they really didn't fight! This fight was suppose to bring boxing back to the forefront but instead it turned into the biggest stinker in a long time!

Well, as bad as this fight turned out, I smell another "Golden Boy" production rematch coming between these two fighters early 2008. Is it OK for a boxer to promote his own fights? Stay tuned the drama continues!

On a very sad note, former world champion Diego Corrales was killed on Monday night in Las Vegas while riding his newly purchased motorcycle. Corrales, 29, who grew up in Sacramento and lived in Las Vegas, greatest achievement was in 2005 in which he picked himself off the canvas twice in the 10th round to capture Jose Luis Castillo's WBC title with a 10th round knockout.

Diego was my friend and I'll miss him. I helped Diego get his first big fight in 1997 on ESPN2 and he never looked back. Corrales, who earned millions on his way to being the champion of the world, was a real warrior and you knew when he stepped into the square circle that you were going to see a great fight not like the soap opera drama show that De La Hoya and Mayweather put us through on Saturday night in LV.

Eleven from RCHS tennis squad qualify for sectionals

From River City High School

A school-record eleven River City High School tennis players qualified for this week's Sac-Joaquin Section Division III tennis tournament at last week's Capital Valley Conference singles and doubles tourney. Chris Salazar came in second place in boys singles and top seeds Kehoua Saechao and Adrian Araza defeated fellow Raiders Brandon Yip and Gary Yang, the #2 seeds, 6-4,6-2 in the boys doubles title match. In mixed doubles, #1 seeds Anna Bouttavong and Josel Tanjutco downed the third-seeded duo of Yian Saetern and Dipak Patel 6-3,6-2 for the championship. In girls doubles, RC's top two players Yelena Ionova and Cindy Yang won their championship match 6-2,7-6(5).

"Back in 1999, we took ten players to Stockton for the Section tournament, with five doubles teams," said RC coach Dave Brooks. "We topped that one with Salazar making it this year in boys singles. Hopefully we'll continue to have success at the next level."

Last week began with an impressive 6-1 win over Trans Valley League co-champion Escalon. Salazar led the way with a 10-6 win. The Raiders also dominated the boys doubles contests as Saechao and Araza won 10-2 and Yip and Tanjutco cruised 10-3. Both girls doubles matches resulted in 10-5 wins for Bouttavong and Saetern, and Cindy Yang and Tamara Lopatin. In mixed doubles, Sandy Phouanglasy and Doug Tipton won the day's closest match 10-9(2).

River City finished the CVC campaign undefeated following an 8-1 victory against Foothill. Ionova and Cindy Yang played nearly flawless singles tennis and in doubles, RC received strong play from Bouttavong and Saetern, Phouanglasy and Patel, and Julie Saeteurn and Svetlana Istomin.

For the season, River City is now 21-1. The Raiders have a first round bye in the Sac-Joaquin Section Division III Team Playoffs, and will host either Colfax or Lindhurst tomorrow in a quarterfinal contest. The match will begin at 3:30 p.m. on the Raider tennis courts .

Station 41: Back on line

REMODELED FIRE STATION 41 "READY FOR DUTY" – One of West Sacramento's original fire stations, Station 41 on 15th Street, was the site for a neighborhood open house to celebrate the completion of a major remodeling project. The 4,000 square foot facility has new living quarters, a community room, an exercise room, and the first fire pole in the history of the West Sacramento Fire Department. The original building was completed in June 1940. Participating in the ribbon-cutting ceremony were (pictured, left to right) City Council Member Mark Johannessen; City Manager Toby Ross; Mayor Christopher Cabaldon; City Council Member Bill Kristoff; Fire Chief Fred Postel; and City Council Member Wes Beers. homeowners, and found annual costs ranging from a low of around $60 to a high of a little over $120 per year – but some people could pay more or less.

Supervisor Mike McGowan told visitors to the press conference that he was able to brag about West Sacramento's levees before confidence in them recently ebbed following new science and new studies.

"I've told my neighbors that if you're not on high ground, West Sacramento is absolutely the best place to be in the event you need to be protected by a levee or a dyke," said McGowan. And if the new improvements are made as planned, "I believe that will still be true."

Local firefighter Gary Frederickson said the new tax adds up to an ounce of prevention:

"We believe it is always better to prevent disaster than to respond to it," said Frederickson, who said that he supports the new assessment. The local fire and police unions have both endorsed the assessment.

The "yes" group has hired local political consultant Mark Capitolo to steer their campaign. There is no organized opposition.

Capitolo told the News-Ledger earlier this month that the campaign is trying to contact property owners – particularly the business owners who would pay the most in assessments and who hold the most weighted votes in the June election – and get their support. The group expects to do this on a low budget, with a lot of mail and networking.

"(The campaign) is a coalition of large property owners, small businesses, and local residents," said Capitolo. "For example, we have Constantine Baranoff, former city manager Joe Goeden, developer Dan Ramos, and Oscar (Villegas) and Bill (Kristoff) from the city council. We haven't raised too much money. Essentially, we're trying to cast a wide net for some of the property owners who have the most at stake."

Developers Richland and Yarbrough (who have projects proposed for Southport) "will be helping out, but we don't expect them to give a whole lot more than other businesses in town," said Capitolo. If the city's flood protection is downgraded by new federal studies, projects like those could be stalled.

City Councilman Wes Beers said at the press conference that the new developer fee and the proposed property assessment together will show good faith as the city seeks federal and state help for the levees.

"The traditional local share (of such improvements) has been around 10 or 12 percent," said Beers. "This community has doubled that amount through a contribution from the development community and through this effort, to about 22 or 23 percent."

Assemblywoman Lois Wolk was asked if all this would guarantee that the city gets the matching funds it needs from the state and the federal government.

"There's never any guarantee, but what's important is that communities that step forward and are partners should be rewarded for that," answered Wolk. "On the federal level, I think it's the same."

The campaign website is at www.westsacramentochamber.com/floodprotection.

POLICE LOG

May 1

The Yolo Sheriff's Department contacted West Sacramento police about a possible need to assist at UC Davis, where demonstrators "threatened to be combative." Local police were put on event, but no assistance was needed.

May 2, evening shift

"Numerous" arrests were made for DUI, arrest warrants, and possession of a stolen car.

May 3, day shift

A tipster reported that a man wanted at drug charges was staying at a West Sacramento motel. The man was found and arrested.

May 3, 9:56 p.m.

A man reported walking from a market on Solano Street when he was approached by three male suspects and robbed at gunpoints. The suspects were estimated as being in their late teens. A half hour later, Sacramento police received the report of a robbery at the K Street mall with similar suspects.

May 4, day shift

Officers responded to the report of a mentally unstable man on the first floor of the civic center. They contacted him, and found he did not know his own name or location. He ran into traffic and fought when officers tried to get him back to the sidewalk. He was placed in "soft restraints" and taken to a Woodland hospital for observation.

May 4

Officers were in the vicinity when a man robbed a victim of money and some clothing, holding a knife to the victim's throat. Police contacted the suspect in front of a West Capitol motel where he led them on a short chase. He was caught, with the knife and stolen items.

May 4

Police arrested a woman on a felony theft warrant and prostitution warrant along the 1800 block of West Capitol. She was booked into jail.

May 4, 11:55 p.m.

An officer saw a large fight in the parking lot of a bowling alley on West Capitol. Two female victims had been hit by a vehicle and were laying in the parking lot. Investigation showed that the car's driver had been assaulted by others, and was trying to escape when he accidentally struck the females, who had been involved in the fight. The women suffered non-life-threatening injuries and were taken to a hospital. A report was forwarded to the District Attorney's office.

May 5, 12:35 a.m.

Officers joined fire and ambulance personnel for a medical aide call on the 2400-block of West Capitol. A 75-year old man "had been drinking heavily all day," and had fallen off his four-wheel scooter and hit his head. He was hospitalized and later declared to be in critical condition. Detectives were notified.

May 5, 5:36 a.m.

Vacaville police reported that several armed robberies had just occurred in Vacaville and Benicia. The suspect vehicle was described as a dark Chevy Avalanche with a black female and male occupant. West Sacramento police saw a similar vehicle, with a black female driver, and conducted a "high risk" stop just west of the Tower Bridge. A male was found lying down in the vehicle. Also found were cash, clothing, a mask, gloves and a handgun. One suspect was wanted in Concord for a string of over 100 robberies, and was on parole on a homicide conviction. Vacaville police took custody of the evidence along with the 25-year old male and 28-year old female suspect.

May 5, day shift

Numerous alarm calls came in, triggered by windy conditions.

May 5, second shift

Police responded to a residential fire on James Street. A known suspect had been seen loading items from the home into a vehicle and driving away minutes before the home erupted into flames. Fire department personnel determined it to be a case of arson. Detectives and evidence technicians responded to process the scene.

May 6, 12:36 a.m.

An alarm went off after someone broke glass and stole jewelry from a store on the 1200-block of West Capitol Avenue. The establishment's front door was smashed.

May 6, 2:14 a.m.

Police responded to a domestic dispute at a north-area apartment complex. Witnesses pointed out a 17-year old suspect, saying he had assaulted a girl. The minor then ran from officers, but was taken into custody and booked into juvenile hall for resisting arrest, battery and being intoxicated.

Women's service organization passes out scholarships, awards

From Soroptimist International

Soroptimist International of West Sacramento presented awards and scholarships at their annual awards banquet in April. Cindy Tuttle, former mayor of West Sacramento, was the keynote speaker. Her motivational message was "Getting Involved," which highlights the mission of Soroptimists.

Soroptimist's Women's Opportunity Award helps women obtain resources needed to improve their education, skills and employment prospects. Applicants are women who provide primary financial support for their families, and are enrolled in a vocational training or a degree program. April Rix won this year's award for her educational expenses.

Cathy Lorda won the Woman of Distinction Award. Ms. Lorda is a Library Specialist at the Yolo County Library, Arthur Turner Branch, and the Clarksburg Branch. She has introduced local children to our libraries for over thirty years. Her award included a matching award to the Turner Library.

Soroptimist's Violet Richardson Award was presented to Danielle Holbein, for her volunteer efforts and service to the Arthur Turner Library. The Library also received a matching award.

Sydnie Burt and Sarah Felix each won the Evelyn Walker Music Scholarship, for graduating high school seniors, who are continuing their music education in college.

Soroptimist has two additional educational scholarships, to be awarded at graduation awards programs at local high schools.

West Sacramento Soroptimists invites new members to join this active group. Please contact Kati Treichler at 371-2561.

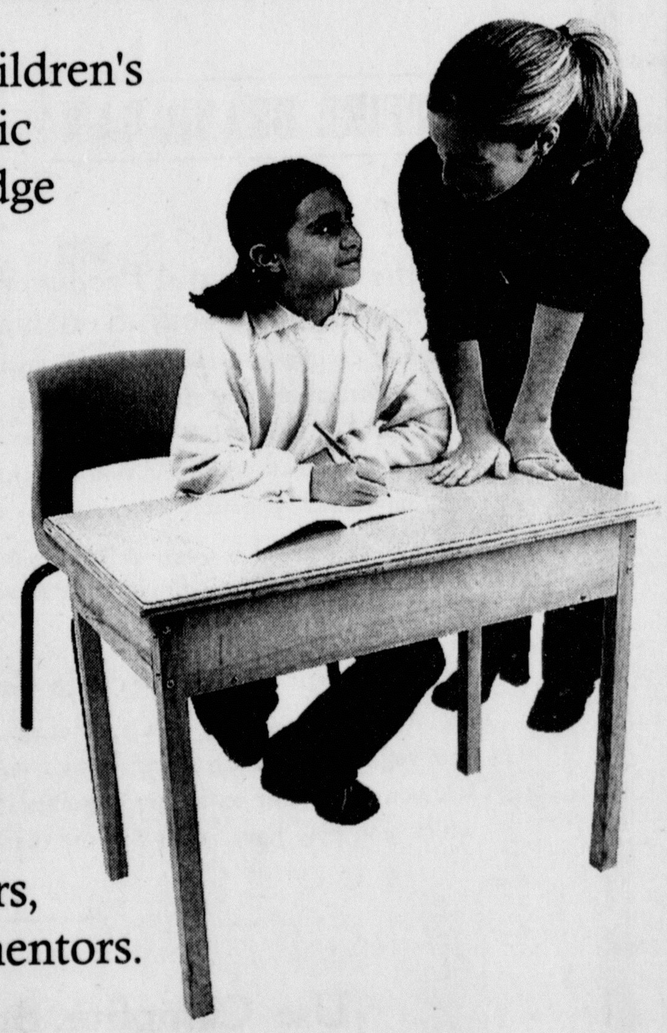
Day of the Teacher

May 9, 2007

Teachers open children's minds to the magic of ideas, knowledge and dreams.



Teachers keep American democracy alive by laying the foundation for good citizenship.

Teachers fill many roles -- as listeners, explorers, motivators and mentors.

Teachers continue to influence us long after our school days are but memories.

The Washington Teachers' Association thanks the West Sacramento community for entrusting us with your children.

Join us in celebrating the 25th annual California 'Day of the Teacher' by remembering a special teacher who touched your life.

The Sacramento River registered 4 feet 6 inches U. S. gauge at the S. P. bridge yesterday.

Clarence Reynolds has been down from Tudor during the past week visiting friends around town. He will return to the dredger Lisbon in a day or two.

A big crowd attended the Parent Teacher dance last Wednesday night at the public school building. The admission to these dances is only 10c and the proceeds are devoted towards buying playground apparatus for the children. The object is a worthy one and deserving of patronage.

The example set by Judge Barry last week in having his sidewalk and lot raised seems to have become contagious, for several other property owners have started improving in his neighborhood. The principal trouble is getting filling to do the work, but at this writing, with the river very low, there is lots for everybody. It would be ever so much better, however, if a united effort was made to have the entire town filled raising all streets and lots to the grade of the S. P. embankment on Ann street.

Mrs. George Beale is expected out of the Sisters' Hospital in Sacramento early next week after undergoing an operation which was very successful. She has improved rapidly and was feeling very well yesterday.

Joe Borges and family have sold their home on 5th street to his brother and have bought a ranch near Freeport on the Yolo side of the river. The Borges family have been residents of Washington for several years.

Mrs. J. Shoemaker is at her home again after several days at the Sisters' Hospital in Sacramento, where she was an interne following a slight operation.

B. Smith and son have dissolved partnership in so far that Smith Jr. has gone to work for the S. P. Co. in the freight sheds. Smith Sr. will continue the wood sawing business till about the middle of March. Lately they had a successful trip to Biggs where they secured the limit of geese.

Mrs. Belle Porter opened her restaurant last night in the Waring building at 2nd and Harriett streets. The place is neatly fitted and Mrs. Porter is too well known to say she is a good home cook. Many local residents who have been going to Sacramento for their meals will be glad to patronize Mrs. Porter. Her prices are very reasonable and all she expects is to make a living from her work. Good substantial meals for working men with good appetites is what she expects to serve. Anyone looking for French pastries and patties de fois gras will not be pleased with her menu. She has decided to give all her trade to the home merchants.

Mrs. George Beale is convalescing from her recent illness at the Sisters' Hospital.

A current report during the past few days had it that Miss Alice Flatbush was married a week or so ago to Edwin Weiger of Sacramento. The report could not be confirmed by the Independent, although it was said that the young couple were now residents of Stockton. Both families were formerly residents of Washington, but lately the Flatbush family has been living in Gerber, while the Weiger family is living in Stockton.

G. TULE JAKE ROAD BADLY CUT UP FOR A WHILE

Plowing outside the western levee of Reclamation District 811 tractors have cut up the Tule Jake road to such an extent that at the present time it is practically impassable.

This will last for a short time only, and G. Swanston has promised when the work is done to restore it in far better shape than it was before the plowing started. A great acreage within the Yolo Basin has been turned over for the first time this winter. Swanston is the owner of most of the land and will probably reap a great harvest from the land if no extraordinary rains come along during the balance of the winter.

As soon as cultivation is completed Mr. Swanston promises to make a much better road than the old one.

QUIET WEDDING UNITED POPULAR YOUNG PEOPLE

On Tuesday, January 6th, Miss Clara Stockton and Bert Berry were quietly married in Sacramento, with only a few near relatives of the contracting parties present to witness the ceremony.

The wedding was not unexpected for close attentions had prevailed for sometime past.

Miss Stockton was born and raised in Washington and was popular with a host of friends. She had many admirers and was a winner with all the people because of her genial manners and charming personality.

Mr. Berry returned from overseas some time ago, since which time he has been a machinist with the S. P. Company.

At present they are in the south on their honeymoon and expect to make their home in Sacramento on their return.

VIRDEN PLANT IS ALMOST SURE TO BE LOCATED IN WEST SACRAMENTO

SURVEYORS WITH PROMOTERS WERE ON THE GROUND LAST WEDNESDAY IN A PRELIMINARY SURVEYING EXPEDITION

Accompanied by a corps of engineers, J. H. Glide and F. F. Atkinson went through the location in West Sacramento last Tuesday that was originally picked out for the location of the Virden Packing Plant and Union Stock Yards.

Glide is Vice-President of the Virden Packing Company. Atkinson is Secretary of the corporation.

This goes to show that the contention made by The Independent at various times is correct. It goes to show that the Virden plant and union stock yards will be located in West Sacramento just south of the headquarters of the corporation and extending between the river and the county road to the extent of 100 acres.

This location is amply suited for such a purpose. It is of sufficient size to accommodate the plant and it is in the immediate proximity of a great tract producing the necessary elements to be used in packing.

West Sacramento consists of 12,000 acres of the best producing land in Yolo County. It is practically a virgin soil and is only now coming into producing qualities after a few years of cultivation.

South of West Sacramento lays the Holland Land Company, than which there is no more productive piece of land in the world. This consists of 26,000 acres and extends southward through the Yolo Basin to a point below Clarksburg.

North of Washington, as far as Elkhorn, there is a growing territory excelled by no other land in the world. Much of this is now devoted to the growing of hops and alfalfa but can easily be converted to grow the products necessary in the Virden Packing Plant.

So far as a union stock yard must be centrally located, West Sacramento is more convenient than any other competing territory. It is very much more available and practical than the "Pocket" district and in addition a constant supply of labor will be always available from the surplus in Sacramento City.

Yesterday neither Glide nor Atkinson would say anything about the expedition made by them with surveyors through the district. Evidently they were not walking around for the benefit of their health and driving stakes just for fun.

Officials of the company, they seem to be taking the final steps for locating the plant in West Sacramento.

C. E. Virden is in Chicago looking after other matters pertaining to the packing plant and stock yards and also the business of fruit distribution, which he is about to relinquish to devote all his energies to the Virden Packing Company.

Since the first of the year, Virden's private office has been moved to the headquarters of the Virden Packing Company in the Capital National Bank Building and his secretary has moved with him.

Nearly two million and a half have been subscribed to the five million capitalization of the Virden Packing Company. Commissioner of Corporations Bellows has released that amount so that from this time on payments made by stockholders will go directly into the treasury of the Virden Packing Company.

In an announcement made a few days ago Virden is quoted as saying:

"The location and erection of the union stock yards which we have in mind will be decided by us just as quickly as Congress acts on the Kenyon bill now pending, which bill regulates the ownership of stock yards.

"In order that we might have without any delay, a going business, we have taken over the meat packing plant of Moran Company, located at South San Francisco. This is an entirely new, modern and highly efficient plant, and we will start operating it immediately. We have selected and placed in charge of this plant a thoroughly qualified and competent manager. The taking over of the business of Moran & Company means a very material increase in the subscription to our capital stock, as they accept stock in our company in payment of the net value of the business, this value having been determined by appraisers appointed by the Corporation Commissioner of California.

"CHAS. E. VIRDEN,
"President."

News-Ledger Editorial

Hearts & minds

History tells us it's tough to prevail in any war in which winning the hearts and minds of the locals is a necessity.

West Sacramento and the Yolo County District Attorney's office might ponder whether or not that lesson has any relevance to the recent effort to squelch gang activity in this city. An appellate court this month ruled that an anti-gang injunction designed to do just that is invalid: the injunction wasn't properly served to those several hundred people whose Constitutional rights the new law set out to restrict. Anyone named in the injunction was prohibited (with narrow exceptions) from associating with others on the list, or being out in public after 10 p.m., for example.

Now, the city and county are trying to decide whether (and how) to try again.

One of the lessons learned on the first go-around was that it may not have been reasonable (surprise!) to consider several hundred alleged gang members properly "served" with notice of the injunction after legally serving just one of them.

Another, more important lesson, is that if you take a broad action like this in a community without first working carefully with the community, you're going to have some unnecessary opposition. Some people in that population will start to feel like they are living in an occupied country. In the long run, that is not going to score a lot of points for law enforcement and good citizenship. It won't be good for the city.

If the county and city decide to try again with some kind of anti-gang policy, they ought to start this time from the ground up. A new anti-gang effort should invite public participation from the beginning, as the policy is shaped. Last time, the public was only invited to voice its opinions after the damage was done and the outcry had begun.

Letters to the Editor

Enjoy the station

Congratulations to the City of West Sacramento and to the West Sacramento Fire Department on the newly reopened living quarters and offices at Station 41. Thank you for keeping with the original late 1930s Spanish-style architecture. We appreciate the careful restoration of the bronze memorial plaque noting Eric Hughes' 38 years of service to fire protection in West Sacramento. The temporary interpretive panels to the left of the plaque are well done and acknowledge the unique history of the old firehouse.

We were honored by the invitation and request that we we bring the 1930s West Gate Fire District fire apparatus known as "Old Mary" to participate in your May 1st dedication. Enjoy your new housing.

Thanks, PG&E

I am writing on behalf of the Solano/Yolo County Veterans Employment Committee (VEC) to thank PG&E for their support of our efforts in promoting purposeful employment opportunities for the veterans of Solano and Yolo counties. The VEC is comprised of representatives from the US Department of Labor/ Veterans Employment and Training Service, the California Employment Development Department, Yolo County Department of Employment & Social Services, Solano County Veterans Services Office, Yolo County Veterans Services Office, Workforce Investment Board of Solano County and representatives of various veterans and service organizations such as the American Legion, Disabled American Veterans and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The Solano/Yolo Veterans Employment Committee members work with both veterans and local employers to assist veterans in obtaining employment and to insure that employers know the value of hiring veterans. The VEC is a key sponsor of the biannual Regional Center Fair put on by the Workforce Investment Board of Solano County.

PG&E has generously funded our activities for another year. We work together with civic-minded companies like PG&E to connect these great future employees with great jobs. We sponsor job fairs and provide support for education and training activities to prepare our vets to enter the workforce and get on with their lives after they have proudly served our country. PG&E is an integral part of this process and is doing more than their share in providing help for our returning veterans in this area. We salute you PG&E.

$200 not enough

I agree with Bee columnists Steve Wiegand and Dan Walters that those released from state prison with only $200 makes no sense. About a decade ago, ABC Nightline host Ted Koppel visited various women's prisons up and down California. Results were very uniform: this practice causes over a 90% recidivism rate -- and quickly. How far does $200 go? Those who support the mere $200 should try to succeed on their own on that amount of money.

A "welfare-to-work" (vocational rehab) approach should be expanded by the Prison Industry Authority (PIA) that provides ex-cons with a living wage until they can earn same on their own.

PRIDE Industries, the nation's largest job seeker for disabled persons, is working with PIA to help achieve such goals.

GO FIGURE! by Linda Thistle

Double-Dipped Strawberries

For an instant party hit, coat ruby-red berries in dark or white chocolate and a mantle of coconut flakes or crushed pistachios or almonds.

PREP: 15 minutes
MAKES: About 20 strawberries

- 1 pound large strawberries (about 20)
- 3 ounces semisweet, milk or white chocolate, melted
- Toppings: finely chopped pistachio nuts and/or sliced almonds, or sweetened flaked coconut

1. Rinse strawberries with cold running water; do not remove stems and/or leaves. Pat strawberries completely dry with paper towels.

2. With fingers, hold 1 strawberry and dip into melted chocolate, leaving part of strawberry uncovered. Shake off excess chocolate. Then dip chocolate-covered berry in topping of choice. Place berry on large cookie sheet lined with waxed paper. Repeat with remaining strawberries, chocolate and toppings.

3. Place chocolate-covered strawberries in refrigerator about 15 minutes or until chocolate is set. Strawberries will keep at room temperature up to 2 hours. If not serving right away, refrigerate strawberries up to 4 hours.

• Each dipped berry without topping: About 30 calories, 0g protein, 4g carbohydrate, 1g total fat (1g saturated), 0g fiber, 0mg cholesterol, 5mg sodium.

CRITIC'S CORNER

Summer Movie Preview

Boy howdy, it's summer movie season again. And this year is pretty much like 2006: A metric ton of franchise movies (and a few franchise wannabes) that the studios hope will lure teens away from their videogames and into the multiplexes.

MAY

Shrek the Third — King Harold gets sick, and it's up to Shrek to find the true heir of Far, Far Away, while Fiona and her girlfriends try to thwart a coup d'etat by Prince Charming. Frankly, I couldn't care less. I'm there for Donkey and Puss N Boots. (May 18)

Pirates of the Caribbean: At World's End — Keith Richards plays Jack Sparrow's (Johnny Depp) dad.

Silver Surfer

Keith. Richards. Nuff said. (May 25)

JUNE

Ocean's 13 — Danny Ocean (George Clooney) and his all-star gang plan another casino heist. Al Pacino plays the bad guy. Whatever. I mean seriously, how many casinos do these people need rob? Are they raising the cash to produce Spider-man 4? (June 8)

Fantastic Four: Rise of the Silver Surfer — The first FF movie was pretty bad — almost "Catwoman" bad. They better not screw this one up. Silver Surfer was my hero back in the day. (June 15)

Evan Almighty — Really looking forward to this one. Steve Carell returns in this sequel to "Bruce Almighty" as Evan Baxter, newsman turned congressman who is visited by God (Morgan Freeman. I mean, who else?) and commanded to build an ark. Oh yes, the laugh-o-meter will be measuring the yuks in cubits! (June 22)

Live Free or Die Hard — Bruce Willis once again fights terrorists as cop John McClane. I haven't seen the trailer or a copy of the script, by my guess is stuff is gonna blow up. Blow up real good. (June 29)

JULY

Transformers — The "robots in disguise" get an overhaul from their clunky, cheap '80s-TV animated look to Funky-Mean, Mecha-Mess-You-Ups. I'm not expecting much in plot, but there better be some major Optimus Prime action onscreen or I'm gonna hafta get all Megatron on someone. (July 4)

Harry Potter and the Order of the Phoenix — Children and parents will flock to theaters to see the 5th installment of the series for gobs of family-friendly Anglophilic Fun. (July 13)

The Simpsons Movie — Finally, Our Favorite Family makes the move to the big screen. Fox has been pretty tight-lipped about the plot, but that's OK. As long as Disco Stu and Professor Frink show up, there'll be laughs aplenty. (July 27)

Diamond Notes

The Giants (16-14) introduced their young pitching ace Tim Lincecum to the home crowd last Sunday against the Phillies only to watch the young man last 4 ½ innings that included a pair of two run home runs. The baby faced 5-foot-10, 170 pounder was bringing the heat to the plate and was clocked at 97-mph on the radar gun. The minor league sensation, nicknamed Tiny Tim, was 4-0 at Triple-A Fresno with 0.29 ERA in five starts.

Barry Bonds magic number is now at 12 has he closes in on Hank Aaron's career home run mark of 755. The G-Men's new catcher, Benny Molina, who is hitting .333, became the first player to hit two home runs in one inning since Willie McCovey did it in 1977.

The Oakland A's (15-15) are coasting at .500 but designated hitter, Nick Swisher, is on fire after hammering Devil Ray pitching all weekend, going 7 for 15 with a pair of home runs and 6 RBI's in three games in Tampa Bay.

The Giants are home this week against the New York Mets and then hit the road to Colorado while the A's travel to Kansas City early in the week before they come home to host the Cleveland Indians over the weekend.

River Cats (20-11) are still in first place but they must be doing it with mirrors because they have seven players on the disabled list. The newest addition to the DL is Jason Stokes with a back injury and he joins Antonio Perez, Donnie Murphy, Brad Halsay, Jeremy Brown, Mike Mitchell and Brian Stavisky. The Gatos will be on the road this week traveling to Omaha and Iowa.

NBA Playoffs

The Golden State Warriors pulled off the biggest upset in NBA history with their 4-2 thrashing of Mark Cuban's Dallas Mavericks. Lead by Baron Davis, who averaged 25 points, 6 rebounds and 5 assists per game; the Warriors must now try and beat the Jazz, who won game one in Utah 116-112 on Monday.

This series will probably go the distance but the Warriors must win game two in Utah on Wednesday night (6 p.m.-TNT) before they return to Oakland for game 3 on Friday night (6 p.m.-ESPN). Game 4 is also in Oakland on Sunday (6 p.m.-TNT).

The Suns, who disposed of the Lakers in five games, lost by a nose to the San Antonio Spurs in their first game of the other semi-final conference series. The Suns were forced to play the last minute of their loss to the Spurs without the services of Steve Nash, who was knockout of the game in the closing seconds after crashing foreheads with Spurs guard, Tony Parker. This series should go seven games if the Suns can pick up a win in Texas. I like the Suns!

In the other Eastern Conference series it's starting to look like huge mismatch between the Pistons and Bulls. The young Bulls were destroyed twice in Detroit and now are faced with a must win two in Chicago. The Pistons are on a roll and look like the team to beat in the East. The other semi-final pits the Cavs against the Nets and I still like the James Gang to get passed the Jason Kidd and the Nets.

Enjoy your day- see ya next week!

The activities proposed are categorically excluded from National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) requirements under HUD regulation 24 CFR Part 58. Sake Bomb?!
It's a drink, right? Sure, but we've taken it to a whole new level with our Sake Bomb Chicken — we marinate 1/2 of an all-natural chicken overnight in rice wine, beer and aromatic Chinese Five Spice and finish it in our rotisserie oven to keep it moist, tender and crisp! We suggest sides like Green Beans with Peanut Oil and steamed Brown or White Rice. And remember: if you like Sake or Sapporo Beer, our Adult Beverage Department has just what you need!
